The official launch of White Knights by first-time novelist Astrid Flemming was held at 44 Stanley Avenue in Milpark courtesy of Glaceau Vitamin Water.

Her first launch was at her wedding in December last year as reported in the Times.

With a successful second print run under her belt, the novel is flying off the shelves and Flemming is planning on taking time off from her life as an investment banking consultant to write her second novel.
